Motivation

The path that leads us to our goals is not always immediately visible. We therefore have to first discover this path and then venture on it boldly, overcoming any obstacles on the way. Pragmatism and a professional stance help me on my own way as well as creating an atmosphere full of appreciation and kindness. It is exhilarating to see a client find their own way.

Focus areas

Expert for organisations or organisational units in change processes such as mergers, phases of corporate development, restructuring processes, changes in management, executive and team development, conflict resolution, coaching and consultant training.

Positions

- Graduated in Psychology (Vienna)
- Trained in systemic organisational consulting and coaching
- Worked for production and services companies in Austria and Germany
- Transfer to management consulting, first with the Neuwaldegg consulting group
